

Welcome

On the VALWEB site we have documented a part of local art history made from 1990 - 2009. VAL is about coming together to create, experiment, and nurture ideas. The Internet opens up new possibilities to easily and quickly explore together.

News & Events

- 14 Pipe Dreams @ CSFAC
- 20 Flying Beatle @ MOMA
- 23 Figure Painting Class @ NJ Community Center
- 30 99 Bottles Exhibit @ NY Activities Center
- 5 Stained Glass Class @ CO Senior Center

Featured Artist Ruth E. Hamori, M.D.

"While I have been an inveterate taker of photographs my whole adult life, it has only been in recent years that I have engaged in it as an art form. My enthusiasm for photography began at an early age, inspired by my father, Charles D. Enselsberg, M.D., a cardiologist and amateur photographer who taught me the principles of good photography. As a psychiatrist, it goes without saying that I am curious about people and the world they live in, who they really are, what they think, what they feel, what they do. I enjoy the challenge of trying to capture people, sometimes from a different culture, engaged in their activities of daily living, without intruding on their privacy. At the opposite extreme, I go to uninhabited places to hike whenever I have the opportunity. I love to be enveloped by awe-inspiring scenery and I bring home what I can on film."

Sign up for our newsletter!

youremail@gmail.com

Featured Artist Ruth E. Hamori, M.D.

"While I have been an inveterate taker of photographs my whole adult life, it has only been in recent years that I have engaged in it as an art form. My enthusiasm for photography began at an early age, inspired by my father, Charles D. Ensberg, M.D., a cardiologist and amateur photographer who taught me the principles of good photography. As a psychiatrist, it goes without saying that I am curious about people and the world they live in, who they really are, what they think, what they feel, what they do. I enjoy the challenge of trying to capture people, sometimes from a different culture, engaged in their activities of daily living, without intruding on their privacy. At the opposite extreme, I go to uninhabited places to hike whenever I have the opportunity. I love to be enveloped by awe-inspiring scenery and I bring home what I can on film."

Welcome

On the VALWEB site we have documented a part of local art history made from 1990 - 2009. VAL is about coming together to create, experiment, and nurture ideas. The Internet

News & Events

Pipe Dreams

@ CSFAC

Flying Beatle

menu

VIRGIN 3G

Visual Arts League

Menu

Featured Artist

Ruth E. Hamori, M.D.

"While I have been an inveterate taker of photographs my whole adult life, it has only been in recent years that I have engaged in it as an art form. My enthusiasm for photography began at an early age, inspired by my father, Charles D. Enselberg, M.D., a cardiologist."

Featured Artist

Ruth E. Hamori, M.D.

"While I have been an inveterate taker of photographs my whole adult life, it has only been in recent years that I have engaged in it as an art form. My enthusiasm for photography began at an early age, inspired by my father, Charles D. Enselberg, M.D., a cardiologist and amateur photographer who taught me the principles of good photography. As a